

Strathy House, Aviemore Lodges

BY JENNIFER & RICHARD GRAHAM FROM MORAY

Strathy House in Aviemore is simply the perfect escape for a family get together. Located in the Cairngorms National Park, the house is luxurious and unique in design, with accommodation arranged around a central glass-roofed courtyard. This has the added advantage of letting light flood into all the rooms, making it feel even more spacious.

On arrival, we met Stewart who could not have been more helpful and made us feel right at home. We had everything we could possibly need in the kitchen and the lounge was spacious and comfy with a log burner; perfect for enjoying a glass of wine or whisky and discussing the day's activities or reading a book. The snug allowed a separate area for young ones to enjoy a movie and popcorn. Outside, the grounds provide ample parking with the garden backing onto the river Druie - a tranquil spot to sit, relax and enjoy your morning coffee whilst listening to the birds.

Strathy House is perfectly situated to explore all that Aviemore has to offer. Having visited Aviemore on numerous occasions and being a huge fan of the 'outdoor playground' it offers, we took our bikes and enjoyed exploring the Rothiemurcus Estate, Loch an Eilein and walking to An Lochan Uaine (The Green Loch). On returning to Strathy House, aching muscles were rejuvenated following a relaxing bath. The only disappointment was not finding the monkey on the loose from the Highland Wildlife Park. This can only mean one thing – we will need to return.
